DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

2. Claims 1, 2, 4-9, 11-14 and 26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Goiny (US 4969788).

Regarding claim 1, in Fig. 2 Goiny discloses an internally threaded fastener assembly comprising a stemmed washer having a washer portion 29, a standoff portion 14 integral with the washer portion and extending therefrom, and a retaining portion 28 integral with the washer portion, and an internally threaded fastener 20 disposed adjacent to the washer portion and retained rotatably (see col. 4, l. 10-12) in assembly with the stemmed washer by the retaining portion.

Regarding claim 2, Goiny discloses a peripheral flange 27 on the fastener, and the retaining portion extends radially inwardly to capture the flange and retain the fastener in the assembly.

As to claim 4, Goiny discloses the standoff portion 14 forms a hollow right cylinder.

Referring to claim 5, Goiny discloses the washer portion is generally planar.

Regarding claim 6, Goiny discloses the fastener is a threaded nut having flats extending from the stemmed washer.

As to claim 7, in Fig. 2 Goiny discloses a threaded nut 20 having a lower peripheral flange 27 and a base having a washer portion 29, a standoff portion 14 extending from the washer portion, and a retaining skirt portion 28 extending integrally from the washer portion and capturing the peripheral flange of the threaded nut to retain the threaded nut rotatably in assembly with the base.

As to claim 8, Goiny discloses the fastener is a threaded nut having flats extending from the stemmed washer.

Regarding claim 9, Goiny discloses the standoff portion 14, the washer portion 29, and the retaining skirt portion 28 form a single-piece structure.

Referring to claim 11, Goiny discloses the washer portion is generally planar.

As to claim 12, Goiny discloses the standoff portion 14 forms a hollow right cylinder.

Regarding claim 13, in Fig. 2 Goiny discloses an internally threaded fastener 20 and a base having a washer portion 29, a standoff portion 14 extending from the washer portion, and a retaining skirt portion 28 extending integrally from the washer portion and capturing the fastener rotatably in assembly with the base.

As to claim 14, Goiny discloses the fastener includes a peripheral flange 27 extending radially therefrom, and the skirt portion captures the peripheral flange to retain the fastener in assembly with the base.

Regarding claim 26, in Fig. 2 Goiny discloses a fastener kit comprising a stemmed washer having a washer portion 29, a standoff portion 14 integral with the washer portion, and a retaining portion 28 integral with the washer portion, an internally threaded fastener 20 disposed adjacent to the washer portion and retained rotatably within assembly with the stemmed washer by the retaining portion, and an externally threaded fastener 4 which mates with the internally threaded fastener.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

3. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

4. Claim 27 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Goiny (US 4969788) in view of McKinlay (US 5688091).

Goiny discloses the claimed fastened joint, as above, and a compressible substrate. Goiny fails to disclose the externally threaded fastener including a head. McKinlay teaches an externally threaded fastener including a head 18 to stop the bolt from advancing too far through the joint. It would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person of ordinary skill in the art to modify the bolt in Goiny by adding a head as disclosed in McKinlay in order to stop the bolt from advancing too far through the joint, and therefore create a more secure connection.

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant argues that Goiny fails to disclose a “standoff portion” since it only extends a fraction of the distance through a first component and is unable to prevent axial movement of a bolt. However, it is noted that the features upon which applicant relies (i.e., extending entirely through the first component and the ability to prevent axial movement of the bolt) are not recited in the rejected claims. Although the claims are interpreted in light of the specification, limitations from the specification are not read into the claims. See In re Van Geuns, 988 F.2d 1181, 26 USPQ2d 1057 (Fed. Cir. 1993). Furthermore, a standoff portion as described by the applicant in the specification is in fact present in the prior art, for example see Copple et al. (US 5380136).

Conclusion

6. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
